CONGRESS 2016

The Corrugated Packaging Industry in India continues to witness dynamic transformation since last decade.

The growing Indian economy and a flourishing organised retail, have raised the expectations that consumption of corrugated packaging will continue to expand as the volume of goods packaged in corrugated boxes, increase.

MNCs/Corporates are now demanding corrugated boxes of international standards and that is driving rapid modernization.

Mass industrialization in developing nations has resulted the increased international trade activities, expansion of infrastructure facilities, upsurge in per capita income and growth.

In light of the above, we have kept the Theme for ICCMA Congress 2016 as ICCMA has been working along with Government organisations, large users of corrugated boxes, machinery manufacturers and others, to draw a road map for taking the industry to the next level.

The Corrugated Packaging Industry in India is undergoing phenomenal transformation. Units modernising and switching to automatic process are increasing in numbers.
